

GRAND DEDICATION PAGEANT PASSES IN REVIEW BEFORE PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO ROARING CHEERS

SOMALIS WHIP ENGLISH INTO RETIREMENT

British Forces Indefinitely
Suspend the Campaign
Because of the Mad Mullah's
Recent Victory.

REORGANIZATION OF THE ARMY NECESSARY

General Egerton Probably Will Succeed General
Manning Who Has Failed to Conquer Fanatical Enemies.

ADEN, Arabia, April 30.—In consequence of the recent British reserves in Somaland, it is reported here that the advance of the British expedition has been suspended indefinitely.

Major-General Egerton is mentioned as the successor of Brigadier-General Manning.

Information here indicates that the complete reorganization of the heads of the expedition would be considered advantageous.

It is feared that the recent victory will embolden the forces of the Mad Mullah to attack isolated posts.

The force of the disposal of Gen. Manning is insufficient for offensive purposes
and it is expected that he will strengthen his posts and remain in activity until after the hot weather.

FREEZING TEMPERATURE

Dr. Hyatt Says Fireworks Must Provide Warmth for Visitors Tonight.

"Generally fair tonight and Friday,
freezing temperature tonight."

"That's the way dedication weather is predicted by Dr.
Hyatt today.

The "generally
doesn't mean absolutely
no rain.

A shower may come in Thursday
afternoon, but
that's the worst
that can happen.

So that the fireworks may have something to warm
up the temperature is scheduled
to fall to the freezing point Thursday
night.

As a result Friday will be warmer.
This will be made possible by a "high"
coming in from the west.

Snow was falling in Springfield, Mo.,
and Des Moines, Io., Thursday morning.
Rain was coming down in the lake region. Chicago was having a wet day.

WARNED FAMILY HE WAS MAD

"Be Careful; I Feel as If I Must Bite
Someone," Said Hydrophobia Patient.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., April 30.—Henry Reber, 20 years of age, of this city, who has just died in a hospital here from hydrophobia, showed great consideration for his family.

Reber, who five months ago
was bitten by a dull dog which he was petting, was at times rational. During the intervals he said:

"I am certain I am mad. I don't want harm any of you, but be careful. I feel as if I must bite some one."

He was finally removed to the hospital,
where the disease developed rapidly until
he died.

concussion of Brain Results From Accident to Charles Spear, Aged Six Years.

Charles Spear, aged 6 years, of 4417 Greer avenue, was knocked down by a Taylor
venue car at Greer and Newstead avenues Wednesday evening. Concussion of the brain resulted, which, physicians say will prove fatal.

He was taken to his home, where Dr.
Seaton, of 317 Newstead avenue, and Dr.
Hatch, of 307 Newstead avenue, attended
him.

A number of persons saw the accident.
T. Seavey was the motorman in charge of the car.

DRUG FIRM HOST TO EMPLOYEES

The employees of the Meyer Bros. Drug Co., with their families and friends to the number of 300, were the guests of the firm
at a dinner given at the Hotel St. Louis.

Two stands had been erected in front of the residence of a member of the firm
and the tickets were distributed free,
and being sold.

ROARS OF WELCOME FOR CHIEF EXECUTIVE

Diplomats, Distinguished Staff Officers in Glittering Uniforms and Brilliant Trappings of the Cavalcades Arouse Enthusiasm.

After traversing the beautiful three-mile
line of march, the imposing dedication pageant led by President Roosevelt, standing in his carriage, bowing to the cheering
cheers of the assembled thousands,
marched past the reviewing stand.

The foremost figure on the stand was President Roosevelt, by his side stood President Francis of the Louisiana Exposition and the secret service men.

Down behind the rail of the stand were seated diplomats, representing nearly all civilized governments of the world,
the governors of a score of states and men whose military and civil standing made them welcome as the guests of the exposition officials.

While the parade was passing the starling cheering that greeted the President and his party as they passed between the lines of spectators, was continued in a prolonged roar, as the men who carry guns passed.

At the stands there was one long extended series of cheers, starting as President took his place and continuing the parade passed.

Each band, each flag and each company of soldiers came in for cheers and applause by the thousands who lined the streets.

DETAILED STORY OF BIG PARADE

At 11:15 this morning bombs crashed in the sky above the city announcing to a waiting thousands that the military parade, the opening spectacle of the dedicatory ceremonies of the Louisiana Exposition, had begun its march on Lindell boulevard, through Forest Park to the World's Fair grounds.

The throngs that lined the way in solid phalanx for the intervening miles
set up a shout that swept, growing
it sped, from one end to the other.

The procession moved at a trot for greater part of the distance.
The ovation to President Roosevelt was continuous. The President stood up in his carriage, bowing right and left.

Force Forest Park had been reached, President's carriage was filled with the era. At several places the carriage stopped to permit the President to accept fandersonal gifts and thank the givers.

At the aerial signal the head of the parade moved forward. Showing the way was a platoon of mounted police led by Col. Matthew Kiely, chief.

Since 9 o'clock Grand avenue had been lined with regiments, troops, squadrons
and battalions of foot, horse and gun.
As the regular took position with the precision of much practice, the militia
in facing on the cross streets.

Behind the sweeping broom of the police
a detachment of United States cavalry swung into line, squadrons of the Four and Eighth from Jefferson Barracks,
next to the President of the United States.

Close behind the cavalry came a cafile bearing Mayor William L. G. Thompson, Louisiana as host to the President, and F. B.
Hirschberg, president of the World's Fair
committee of ceremony and reception.

Bowing to the right and left then Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, responding to the
that were hurled at him with a slam that cracked out, then received a roar of welcome such as few men received. The President smiled and,
in hand, inclined his head to right
left. At his left sat David R. Francis, President of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Thomas H. Carter, president of a Louisiana Purchase National Commission and Private Secretary took seat on the box with the chairman, who alert United States secret service man, President was.

This was the head of the parade

sented the President to the multitude.

CABINET WILL MEET IN ST. LOUIS; TIME AND PLACE NOT YET SET

Informal Gathering of the Secretaries Who Are Now Here Will Be Held as Soon as It Can Be Arranged.

Secretary of War Root said to the Post-Dispatch this morning that a cabinet meeting would be held in St. Louis.

The time and place of the meeting were to be decided upon when the members of the cabinet and the President met at some place during the dedication ceremonies.

Secretary Root did not know how many of the cabinet members were in St. Louis
as he had not communicated with President Roosevelt since his arrival in St.
Louis.

The meeting of the cabinet would be informal to a large extent.

Such members of the cabinet as were in St. Louis would meet with the President and discuss with him the questions that were coming up and needed a decision
from the President.

As to the questions that would come up
Mr. Root did not care to make an advance statement. Aside from the Manchurian incident, the other matters will be suggested by the secretaries as matters
before their departments.

The cabinet members in St. Louis are Secretaries Root of the war department, Shaw of the treasury, Wilson of agriculture and Moody of the war department.

The prisoner was taken to the Four Courts and there re-locked by Sergt. Dogan.

Complaint was made several days ago, and the police were notified. Every thing was well until a few hours ago
when the prisoner was taken to the Four Courts.

WATCHMAN CRUMB ARRESTED

Harry Crumb, a private watchman on duty in Forest Park, was arrested early Thursday morning on a charge of disturbing the peace. Crumb had been discharging his revolver and otherwise acting in a boisterous manner.

WILD RIDE FOR THEIR LIVES

Three Men on Bicycles Plunge
Through Burning
Forest.

HAMMONTON, N. J., April 30.—Three Hammonton men have had a wild ride for their lives through a blazing forest. They had been on jury duty at May's Landing, and had ridden ten miles between here and that place on their bicycles.

They had covered perhaps half the distance on their return when they found that the smoke from the burning woods was getting extremely thick. As the fire did not seem directly in their path, however, they decided to press on.

Deeper and deeper into the burning woods they rode, every minute seeming to increase their peril. They could scarcely see each other, though they kept as close together as possible. The smoke had blinded them, and the heat was well-nigh intolerable. Every little while they felt shaken and burning embers fall about them, but brushing them off, they kept on. Several times they believed they were overcome, but finally they overcame by the

Army Blankets for Women Guests in the Reviewing Stand

In the reviewing stand men in their heavy overcoats shivered, while women,
garbed in elegant but inadequate lace, suffered more severely. It was all taken good naturedly, however.

Mrs. Odell, wife of the governor of New York, Mrs. James L. Blair, president of the board of lady managers, and a number of others found relief in thick army blankets, furnished by Capt. Larimore of the First Missouri.

The supply was soon exhausted and the attentive captain was left discomforted with a score of unyielding orders for a time.

Later a fresh supply was secured and the brilliant array of gowns which had graced the stand earlier, to quote on of the ladies, took on the appearance of an encampment of Indians in December.

Back of the stand was a tent where,
among other things, it was possible to secure hot coffee and chocolate. Gentlemen dressed in the height of fashion were kept busy for two hours carrying liquid relief to the suffering ones exposed to the weather.

From 10 o'clock to 11:15, when the President arrived, the crowd sat shivering, but good humored and seemed to forget all about the cold when the President, bowing from side to side, arrived.
A number of members of the diplomatic corps and a few senators, found themselves without seats when they arrived.
The crowd, having discovered water in the seats of most of the chairs in that part of the stand left.

COULDN'T AGREE WITH MOTHER

Young Woman's Attempt at Suicide
With Six Morphine Tablets
Proves Unsuccessful.

Mrs. Belle Atwood, aged 24, is at the City Hospital recovering from an overdose of morphine taken with intent to commit suicide.

Mrs. Atwood lives with her mother at 1214 Pine street, and she assigned as the reason for her attempt to end her life that she had just had a violent quarrel with her mother, and really, that she could not live peaceably with her.

She took six morphine tablets, and Dr.
Dietrich, who examined her at the Hospital, pronounced her condition not dangerous.

LORENZ WILL HELP CHILD

To Perform Operation Free in Chicago
on Girl Whose Parents Followed Him From England.

CHICAGO, April 29.—Dr. Adolph Lorenz
will perform an operation this afternoon on Rosa Stoffer, a little girl who was brought to Chicago from Bristol, England, several months ago in search of famous Vienna surgeon.

The Stoffers reached Chicago after Dr.
Lorenz had departed and, having spent
all their money on the trip, were compelled to remain here in destitute circumstances.

When Dr. Lorenz heard of the case, he promised to perform the operation upon his return here without charge. It will be Dr. Lorenz's last in Chicago.

HEALTHY WOMEN

raise Pe-ru-na as a Cure for Colds and a Preventive of Catarrh.

First Stage of Catarrh—
A Serious Mistake
Which Thousands
are Making.

The first stage of catarrh is what is commonly known as "catching cold." It may be in the head, nose, throat or lungs. Its signs are sometimes as severe as to cause a chill and considerable fever, or it may be so slight as to not hinder a person in his usual business. In perhaps a majority of cases little or no attention is given to the first stage of catarrh, and so it is that nearly one-half of the people have chronic catarrh in some form.

Don't neglect a cold is to invite chronic catarrh. As soon as any one discovers the first symptoms of catching cold he should at once begin the use of Peruna according to directions on the bottle, and the cold is sure to pass away without leaving any bad effects. Unless this is done the cold is almost sure to end in the second stage of catarrh, which is making so many lives miserable. Peruna were taken every time one has cold or cough, chronic catarrh would be actually an unknown disease.

Miss Belle Walden, Jamestown, N. Y., writes: "Peruna has no equal as a catarrh cure. I haven't enjoyed perfect health for over a year, suffering with a troublesome catarrh of the bronchial tubes. My throat, having used Peruna for different months and with very good success, advised me to try it. It only took six bottles to effect a permanent cure. I now enjoy perfect health. People say it is a perfect picture of health compared to what I was before using Peruna."

Miss Joseph Towne, Devil's Lake, Minn., writes: "I have tried Peruna and have had it an excellent tonic and cure for catarrh. I was a sufferer from catarrh of the cat and also of the stomach. I was unable to take doctor's medicine and was at last given up in despair when I was advised by a friend to try Peruna, which I did with best results. I could not eat even the weakest diet without distressing my stomach, but after taking the first bottle Peruna I was able to eat anything that pleased."

Miss Lottie Howlett, East Henrietta, N. Y., writes: "When I wrote you for advice I was suffering with chronic catarrh of the head, throat and digestive organs. I followed your directions carefully in taking Peruna and after taking it for three months I am completely restored to health. Before I commenced taking Peruna I had employed two physicians, and after taking their medicine for some time I did not seem to derive any good from them. A friend handed me a Peruna almanac, and after reading what your medicine had done for others, I commenced its use. I hope everyone who is suffering from catarrh will try Peruna for I cannot say too much in favor of the wonderful 'P.'—Miss Lottie Howlett.

Women's Remarkable Restoration to Health.
Viola Adams, Crab Orchard, a County, Ky., writes: "I was ten years old I had whooping cough and chills which left me in a condition, and I have been partly deaf. I had roaring in my head and ears, ringing ears. I had throat trouble cough. I was short of breath, had

I was also troubled with scanty menstruation, was always weak and exhausted, and had cold hands and feet. "I am now as well as I ever was. I used eight bottles of Peruna and it has done me a world of good. I recommend Peruna to all my friends, and thank you very much for the kind advice you have given me."—Sadie Viola Adams. If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. SKULL FRACTURED Citizen Soldier from Elmira, N. Y., Seriously Injured in Forest Park.

While running to join his company in Forest Park at 3 o'clock Thursday morning, Private Sterling of the New York Provisional Regiment was caught under the chin by a wire, and thrown to the ground, suffering a fracture of the skull. Sterling is from Elmira, N. Y., and belongs to the company of the 112th New York Regiment of the national guard, which forms a part of the Provisional Regiment. The company had been ordered to fall in line and march to a point where the parade was to form. Sterling was somewhat behind his comrades, and started for them as he was about to enter the roadway in the park that has been roped off with wires for the route of the procession. He struck a wire which he did not see. He fell like a man mortally hit by a bullet. The back of his head struck the hard macadam and he lay unconscious until he was picked up by members of his company. The ambulance corps of the regiment responded to a hurry call, and the unfortunate soldier was placed upon a stretcher and borne to the hospital in the World's Fair grounds.

BELLEVILLE ELKS HAD CARRIAGES

The Belleville Elks came to St. Louis Thursday morning to the dedication in carriages, much to their own satisfaction and that of the Belleville liverymen and undertakers. Every public carriage in Belleville was hired for Thursday by St. Louis liverymen and were to leave the Illinois city at 5 o'clock. The members of the Elks heard of the arrangement and applied for passage in the carriages and were accommodated by the owners of the vehicles at the rate of $5 for each carriage. Those securing seats in the carriages were well pleased at the arrangement. It was quite an imposing procession that left Belleville in the early morning. A meeting point has been arranged for the start on the home trip after the fireworks Thursday night. While the Belleville carriages are engaged for the St. Louis ceremonies, all funeral engagements in Belleville are delayed.

TENT SERVICE FOR PRESIDENT SUNDAY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 30. President Roosevelt will spend next Sunday at Sharon Springs, Kan., a little town near the Colorado line. The special train will be sidetracked, and Mr. Roosevelt has planned a long horseback ride. There being no church of any pretensions in the town, citizens of Sharon Springs came to St. Louis to obtain a tent and engaged Dr. William Carter, the leading Presbyterian clergyman of this city, to preach in the tent next Sunday at a special service for the President and his party. The project to run excursion trains to Sharon Springs was abandoned at the express request of Mr. Roosevelt.

SECRETARY ROOT GOES HOME TONIGHT

Secretary of War Root, who is the guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Dozier of 19 Westmoreland place, with Capt. Cowles of the navy, a brother-in-law of President Roosevelt, and Gen. Fitzhugh Lee of Virginia, were the guests of honor at a dinner party Wednesday evening, at which 20 covers were laid. Among the guests were Lieutenant-General Allen, Gov. and Mrs. Allen of New York, Private John Allen of Mississippi, the former congressman, and Congressman Tawney of Minnesota, and Miss Runnicker of the board of lady managers. Secretary Root arrived in St. Louis at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening and went at once to the Dozier home and did not leave there until next morning. He will return to Washington tonight.

Iron Mountain Trains Leave at Midnight

The two Iron Mountain special excursion trains, returning to Poplar Bluff, Mo., and intermediate points, will be held until midnight, Thursday, instead of 11 o'clock, as advertised, to enable visitors to view the display of fireworks at the World's Fair grounds and to give them ample time to return to Union Station.

DIED WHILE PLANNING VISIT

Col. William Bailey of New York Expired After Accepting Dedication Invitation.

Within 12 hours after receiving a telegram that her brother, Col. William Bailey of New York, was coming to St. Louis to attend the Dedication exercises, Miss Martha Bailey of 4054 Finney avenue received a second message announcing his sudden death.

The second message contained no information other than that death had been caused by apoplexy, and it is believed that excitement attending the preparations being made by Col. Bailey for his anticipated western trip may have induced the attack. Although born in New York, Col. Bailey, who was 68 years old, spent the greater part of his life in St. Louis. He was a son of Mrs. Ann Campbell Bailey, who, after a residence of 62 years in this city, died in the latter part of 1901, aged 85 years.

Col. Bailey earned his title in the Civil War. Besides his only sister, he leaves a wife and son, William Bailey, Jr., a daughter, Mrs. Irene Phibby and one granddaughter, Margaret F. Hathaway.

Since the war he had been in the railroad business. Official Route. St. Louis Medical Society. Illinois Central Railroad. City Ticket Office, 208 North Broadway.

MAJOR POWELL'S HORSE FELL

Illinois Surgeon Victim of Accident That Prevented His Appearance in Big Parade.

Regimental Surgeon Powell, on the staff of Gov. Richard J. Alpe of Illinois, was the victim of an accident Thursday morning by which he was incapacitated from participation in the dedication parade.

The accident occurred at the Fourth street entrance of the Planters' Hotel, while the governor and members of his staff were preparing to depart for the point of the parade's formation. The horse on which Dr. Powell was mounted slipped and the rider was thrown to the street.

Dr. Powell, who is a large man, landed squarely on his face, causing severe laceration. His right leg was also injured, and he was compelled to announce that he could not enter the parade.

BADEN POWELL CRITICIZES THE AMERICAN CAVALRYMAN

British General Who Thinks England Has the Finest Horse Soldiers, Declares Ours Have Too Many Luxuries and No Staying Powers.

NEW YORK, April 29.—Gen. Baden-Powell, before sailing for England on the completion of his tour of this country, speaking of the United States cavalry, said:

"I rather expected to find men of fine physique in your cavalry and was surprised to find the reverse. They enjoy too many luxuries in their food and their system of exercise is not thorough. Their food is far too highly seasoned. They should be deprived of coffee altogether, and should have an occasional portion of tea. The British cavalrymen, when in barracks, have a salt water bath every day, which keeps them in perfect physical condition. Plain diet, vigorous exercise, combined with regular drill, are what have made the British cavalrymen superior to all other cavalrymen in the world. Your cavalry have not yet had a hard campaign like the Boer war, to show their staying powers. I am inclined to think that if the chance ever comes their mode of life will tell the tale in a long sick list. Your cavalry horses cannot be equalled. Probably 50 per cent of the horses in the British cavalry are American-bred and they are able to wear out 8 per cent of their riders in a two weeks' journey. They are especially good over a rough and dry country. Your cavalryman is more active, both physically and mentally, than the average British horseman, but I think he lacks the staying powers. I consider your Second Cavalry the most efficient in rank and file as well as the best officered. No torture compares to that of a rheumatism. Prescription No. 2851 by Elmer & Amend quickest relief of all.

HISTORIC YACHT AMERICA WILL SOON BE BROKEN UP

First Yankee Winner of the Cup Will Be Torn Apart by Owner and Pieces Will Be Distributed as Souvenirs.

BOSTON, April 29.—The famous old yacht America has sailed her last race. She will soon be broken up. The boat over, with a keeper in charge, time has done its inevitable work of destruction.

The America is owned by Capt. Butler Ames, who inherited her from his father-in-law, the late Benjamin F. Butler. Gen. Butler last had the yacht in commission in days when the Defender of the Republic was a prize. She was then a leaky state. Congressmen Ames will break her up into pieces as souvenirs to yacht men all over the country. It may truly be said that if America had not been built and gone across the Atlantic to wrest the "Blue Ribbon of Sea" from the yachtsmen of the other nations, there would today be no Reliance, making ready to defend the America's cup. REV. JAMES DOHERTY
Writing About

Paine's Celery Compound

Says: "I was benefited Beyond My Expectation."

The claim that Paine's Celery Compound is the only honest medicine in the world for the cure of terrible neuralgia, nervous and blood diseases, is fully borne out by the strong and convincing letters of testimony received every day of the year by the proprietors of the popular medicine. Nothing else has ever possessed anything like the power of Paine's Celery Compound to restore a healthy nervous tone to the entire body and to thoroughly cleanse the making it impossible for neuralgia, rheumatism to find a lodgment in the system. Ministers, professional men, newspaper men, public officials, brain workers, men whose daily out-of-vitality, because of hard, trying, laborious work, is excessive, find renewed strength and vitality in Paine's Celery Compound. It is used by dyspeptics, neurasthenics, heart trouble, general debility, languor that are so common in spring. Rev. Jas. Doherty, Everett, Pa., writes thus:—

REV. JAMES DOHERTY.

"I have used Paine's Celery Compound for neuralgia and the blood. I was benefited beyond my expectation. It is indeed a medicine for my system. It keeps everything in good turn. There is no wear, worn-out feeling to the user of medicine. Those who use it and do not benefit from it, simply abuse it."

CLEVELAND FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Brooklyn Eagle Urges Democrats to Choose Him as Their Leader.

"THE ONLY MAN WHO COULD BEAT THEODORE ROOSEVELT"

"His Nomination Would End All Quibbles About Recent or Future Platforms—He Would Be the Platform."

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 30.—The Brooklyn Eagle, an independent Democratic paper, in a leading editorial today comes out squarely for Cleveland's renomination for the presidency.

The Eagle declares that Mr. Cleveland is the only Democrat who can assuredly beat Roosevelt. In a triple headed editorial, a column and a half in length, it urges the reasons why his nomination should be made next year.

Editor McKelway said today that he had taken his stand for Mr. Cleveland without knowing of any definite movement in Mr. Cleveland's favor, but believing that the demand for the former President would develop until it becomes irresistible. The Eagle's editorial says in part:

"Millions of Americans again desire to make Grover Cleveland President of the United States. He is today regarded as the only man who could beat Theodore Roosevelt."

"This reduces the case to those who would like to beat Mr. Roosevelt and to those who would not."

"The nomination of Cleveland would end all quibbles about recent or future platforms."

"His career and character would be the guarantee of restoration of repose, of strength, of consistency, of dignity, of wisdom and of trained experience to the chief magistracy."

"The dangerous tendencies of plutocracy, on the one hand, and of protectionism on the other, would be stopped by the very fact of his presidency."

"To the Democratic party his nomination would mean rejuvenation, and to the country a large assurance."

"Today the proposition plainly is Grover Cleveland for President of the United States in 1904, or only a nominal Democratic opposition to the election of Theodore Roosevelt then."

"In our opinion Grover Cleveland can and should be nominated for President in 1904 by the Democratic national convention, as the only man who can assuredly lead the party to victory."

CALHOUN COUNTRY HOME DESTROYED

Residence to Have Cost $30,000 Was Nearly Completed.

David R. Calhoun's new country home, in process of construction near Clayton, was burned to the ground Wednesday afternoon. The building was to have cost $30,000 and was nearing completion.

Sparks from the burning building ignited the dry grass and leaves in an open field near the residence and endangered several residences, some more than a quarter of a mile away.

Near the grounds surrounding the burning building is situated the Pels schoolhouse. On the first alarm Miss Mollie Weber, the teacher, dismissed the pupils, who organized a bucket brigade to save the school building. There was a wall in the schoolhouse yard, but there were only two buckets and the children scoured the neighborhood to get buckets to fight the fire.

Such headway was made by the flames that all hope of saving the Calhoun house was abandoned and volunteer fire fighters turned their attention to the schoolhouse and other menaced property.

Workmen were at work in every part of the building, but none of them knew of the fire, which was discovered in the corner of a porch at the southwest corner of the house. The stables and servants' quarters, near the main building, were saved, owing to the courage of the carrying burning brands in the opposite direction.

Water pipes laid and owned by the Leg Cabin Country Club run near the burned building, but this water supply was not available, as the pumping engine of the club was not running.

The flames from the fire were seen at Clayton, three miles away, and a number of persons drove over to assist in fighting the fire, but their services were not needed when they arrived.

D. R. Calhoun, owner of the property, was notified, but did not arrive until after the house was in ruins. The structure was fully insured.

GOOD ROADS ARE IRM MPH OF MODERN CIVILIZATION

President Urges Improvement of Highways as People's Right and as Means of Preserving Proper Balance Between Country and City Life.

President Roosevelt delivered an enthusiastic speech before the national and international good roads convention, Wednesday night. His speech was as follows:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: When we wish to use descriptive adjectives to characterize great empires and the men who made those empires great, we invariably use the adjective 'good roads.' (Applause.) When we speak of the Romans, we speak of them as rulers, as conquerors, as administrators, as road-builders.

"There were empires that rose overnight and fell overnight; empires whose influence was absolutely evanescent, which passed away without leaving a trace of their former existence, but whenever the Roman empire established its rule the roads that rule remain deep today, stamped on the language and customs of the people, but stamped in tangible form upon the soil itself.

"And so, passing through Britain 18 centuries and over, after the dominion of Rome has passed away, the Roman roads as features still remain. Going through Italy where power after power has risen and flowered and vanished since the days when the temporal dominion of the Roman emperors transferred its seat from Rome to Byzantium, to Constantinople, going through Italy after the Lombard, de Gosh, the Byzantine and all the peoples of the middle ages have ruled that country—it is the imperishable Roman road that remains. It is what the fact, the habit of roadbuilding marks a nation—those solid, stable qualities which tell for permanent greatness.

Roads Indicate Civilization.

"Merely from the standpoint of historical analogy, we should have a right to ask that this people—this people which has tamed a continent, which has built up a country with a continent for a base, which boasts itself with truth as the mightiest republic that the world has ever seen, which we firmly believe will in the century now opening, rise to a position of leadership and leadership such as no other nation has ever attained—should be merely from historical analogy, I say, we should have a right to demand that such a nation build roads that shall be a monument to its greatness.

"Much more have we a right to demand it from the practical standpoint. The difference between the barbarism of the

It is a spark from the flint of genius that makes certain pianos shine out above their fellows. Take the Kimball Piano recommended by the greatest public and private use by the greatest living musicians, accorded the highest honor at that exposition, however shown. It holds a unique position among the foremost makes of pianos in the world.

"We sell many good makes of pianos, but for that true and lasting tone, tone that is never harsh, but sweet, full and round, the Kimball has no equal."

The great Adeline Patit says: "The Kimball Piano has a wonderful, sweet and sympathetic tone."

Walter Damrosch says: "The Kimball Piano has a pure, refined and powerful tone."

Emma Calve says: "The Kimball is a superb instrument."

W. E. C. Seebach says: "The Kimball stands in a peer of all pianos I ever played upon."

Edward De Reszke says: "I am absolutely satisfied with my Kimball Piano. Marcella Sembrich says: 'The Kimball Piano ranks with the best instruments before the world.'"

John Philip Sousa says: "The Kimball Piano is first-class in every respect."

Lilli Lehman says: "Faultless in every detail is the Kimball Piano."

"We have many styles of many makes from which you can select. Our prices are based on the smallest margin of profit consistent with legitimate methods. Our price concessions appear on our price tag, marked in plain figures."

PRAISE FOR MEN WHO KEPT MISSOURI IN THE UNION

Amid Waving Flags in Hands of Those Attending Sigel Monument Benefit, President Lauds Soldiers of Foreign Birth in Civil War.

President Roosevelt's appearance and speech at the Sigel Monument Association benefit entertainment Wednesday night proved the climax of an interesting program.

The President arrived at Music Hall just at the close of the program, and was received by the large audience standing and singing the "Star-Spangled Banner." Each guest of the association entering the big hall was given a small flag, and these were used vigorously.

At the conclusion of the remarks by the President the flags were again brought into play and were enthusiastically waved as the audience sang "America."

The escort conducting the President from the hall after his address was composed of little girls, carrying banners and flowers.

The morning Choral Club, the girls' class of the St. Louis Turnverein, the

In the civil war, in spite of the death of Sigel and heart-breaking because he has the right as a reunited people to take pride in the valor of both the blue and the gray. The victories won by these men left the survivors the right. Men of both the north and the south feel a pride in their names.

"We are here a new nation, different from the nations of the old world, as we come from different races, whose fathers came from different lands, and they were ready to pour out their lifeblood for the country which was a symbol of their ideal."

"Now we can win in civil life, in peace, as they did in war, by doing our duty, by keeping true to the principle they represented and by judging every citizen by his worth as a man. It was of small consequence to you from what land your comrades' forefathers came. What concerned you and what you wanted to know was, would his metal ring true in stress. If it did, he was your brother. You judged his worth as a man and were satisfied if he was determined to battle to the end for the cause he had sworn to support."

Accident of Birth Sorrowed.

"The man who seeks to divide our countrymen, except on questions of right and wrong, does us an injustice. To seek to put class against class, section against section, is to do evil to our entire body. We are united, and can and will stand in our aims, and will make this the best country the sun has ever shone upon, if we approach the task as did Sigel and his comrades. We must have the same spirit—the spirit which scorns accidental birth; the spirit which asks if you are true; the spirit of Lincoln, the spirit of national brotherhood in its deepest significance. If we are true to this spirit, we shall win; if we are false we shall fail, and shame be to us for the failure.

"I said that many race strains join to make American citizens. We get them from all of them, and we can get the highest citizenship by the frank acceptance of the principle of Americans. Judge each man by what he is, not as a man, and if he proves himself, hail him as a brother."

The Biggest Little Thing

measured by the amount of nutritive value it contains, is the fresh soda cracker. Many people think a cracker an insignificant and easy thing to make—yet no one ever succeeded in reaching perfection until Uneda Biscuit were introduced. To maintain the quality of Uneda Biscuit requires the best of everything—wheat, flour, baker, and bakery.

Uneda Biscuit furnishes every element necessary to bodily vigor; and, above all, they are fresh and clean. This is due to the In-er-seal Package—identified by the famous red and white trade mark design—which protects them from the air, moisture, dust and other things not best to mention. There's a world of worry, work, skill and care in making a soda cracker like—

BANQUET TO NOTED GUESTS FOLLOWS END OF CEREMONY

President Roosevelt, Ex-President Cleveland, Church Dignitaries and Exposition Officers Honored at Dinner in Hall of Congresses After Exercises Conclude.

Following the exercises in the Liberal building an informal dinner to President Roosevelt will be served in the Hall of Congresses. From 6 to 8 the guests will be at the table, after which they will view a pyrotechnic display from the grand stand.

Among the 500 guests invited to dine with President will be ex-President Cleveland, the officiating clergymen at the Dedication, the members of the diplomatic corps, national commission, board of managers and other distinguished visitors. During the dinner the marine band will give concerts on the balcony immediately in front of the stand.

The decoration of the hall on the second floor, where the dinner will be held, is most elaborate. Every inch of the wall is covered with national, Exposition and state colors. The ceiling is decorated with festoons of flags in the colors, done in panels, and being strung from the rafters. In the center of each ceiling of drape are clusters of incandescent lights.

The walls of the hall have a background of white bunting against which are draped the American colors, each alternate window being draped with curtains of the colors of the Exposition. On panels between the windows are large United States shields, draped with silken flags. Potted plants are placed at intervals on the floor between the windows.

An enormous presidential ensign is draped against the north wall of the hall, almost entirely covering that side. On the opposite, or southern wall, are draped the union Jack of Great Britain and the yellow dragon of China, side by side with the stars and stripes.

Eight guests will be seated at each of the 60 round tables, which are arranged in four rows down the hall.

The president's table is on a raised platform in the center of the room. At it will be seated 20 of the most distinguished guests.

Ninety-five waiters and 15 cooks will serve the dinner, the details of which have been in preparation for several weeks by Gustav Koenig, former manager of the Noontide Club.

The menu is as follows:

Causee Victoria.
Essence of Chicken Haricquin.
Aiguillette de bar aux Herbes Fraiches.
Tournefort de Boeuf, Reformation.
Solein au Meuble.
Tomato Salade, a l'Exposition.
Glace de Fantaisie au Fraises.

Louis Officers in Silk Hats Form the President's Body Guard

President Roosevelt's police guard while in St. Louis is attired to attract as much attention as possible, and no doubt members of the St. Louis police who accompany the President will be pointed out as being about these men is their trained glance at all corners, the glance that will pick out the dangerous man as he approaches.

The special bodyguard detail of men who met the President when he arrived, and who are closest to him while he is in St. Louis is made up of Chief of Detectives Desmond, Special Officers James Crowell, Edward Flynn and Michael Kevy and Detective Richard Joyce. These men left the Four Courts Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to be on hand when the President left his special train; they were at the Odeon meeting at St. Louis University, while the President was the guest at the "Grand act" ceremonies, at the Francis home during dinner, and again they appeared at Music Hall to watch those who came close to the President.

While these men are always on the alert for dangerous persons approaching the President, 155 members of the local police and detective force and 50 picked men from the various large cities of the country are mingling with the crowds, where the gatherings are the densest, looking for crooks.

Capt. Johnson of the Tenth district is in command of the district where the President left the train. Capt. Johnson's men held the crowd under control while they were waiting for the arrival of the special train.

A special police headquarters has been established in the Lindell pavilion for directing the police work while the dedication exercises are in progress, and policemen on special duty at the grounds will report there.

Twelve men under command of Capt. McNamee of the Mounted District accompanied the President's carriage on his trip in the West End during the evening. Capt. Peter Joyce was in command of 100 policemen, who were at St. Louis University when President Roosevelt arrived there.

Capt. Gaffney was in command of the Odeon detail and Capt. Reynolds and Young divided the work at Music Hall at night.

Several of Capt. McNamee's mounted men met the diplomatic guests on their arrival in St. Louis and escorted their carriages to the Planters' Hotel.

Inspector Lally, with almost 60 men, has taken up quarters on the monitor Arkansas to protect the boat while the crew are away for the dedication parade. The boat is closed to visitors during the day and the policemen will not have to escort visitors about, but it was feared that river pirates might board the sea-going craft as she lay in the river.

The special detail that was assigned to the levee for service while the crowds were visiting the boat will remain there during the parade.

Who is in charge of the detail at the levee is in charge of the detail at the levee.

which the parade passes. Capt. O'Malley commands the detail at the main entrance. Capt. Pichel has charge of the Administration building entrances, while Capt. Gaffney and Capt. Johnson command the men at the Administration and Liberal Arts buildings.

Chief Kiely, with two sergeants and 15 men, is to lead the parade.

The general order is that, after the exercises, all policemen will assist in handling the crowds at the street car loops as the start for home is made.

Union Station Never So Crowded as It Is Today

Union Station never cared for such a crowd as appeared on the midway and in the waiting rooms today.

At 7 o'clock, when the trains from every part of the United States began to arrive, there was scarcely an available foot of standing room.

The trains were divided into four and five sections, and each carried from 200 to 250 passengers.

Inside of 30 minutes it was estimated that 50,000 persons had passed through the gates.

Men, women and children literally fought their way through the solid mass of humanity.

Police were on duty at all the gates, but the bluecoat had the task of his life. Every department had tried to force, but the accommodations still seemed inadequate and the need for a greater Union Station to accommodate the World's Fair through a year hence was strikingly illustrated.

At the Bureau of Information the scene was exceptionally animated. Scores, hundreds of persons, gathered about the windows and Harry Fraenkel and his staff of cyclopedia wizards were kept constantly busy.

Special excursions were run from all points within 100 miles of St. Louis.

PORTRAITS OF THE FOREIGN REPRESENTATIVES AND

ROSE MARION TELLS WHAT A WOMAN SEES AND THINKS
ABOUT ON THE ARKANSAS

IT IS ALL "DOWNSTAIRS"
AND THE LIVING QUARTERS
ARE LIKE ST. LOUIS FLATS

BY ROSE MARION.

A yellow ice with a layer of white foundation set on a big dark gray plate—that's what the Arkansas seemed to be as I looked at it from the river bank Monday afternoon.

It wasn't an ice that could be eaten—it was too far away, and no one was allowed to go close, because the mayor of St. Louis had not yet been aboard.

I was not the only one that looked longingly across the water. Children and men and women "walked up and down the levee," waiting for the mayor to come, so that they might go too. He didn't come for the longest time. We grew dreadfully tired, those levee rocks are so hard to walk on, they make your shoes turn aside.

We walked south, then we walked north, then south again. I looked for one of the little tug boats whose captains are so good to me. None on the Missouri side, except the "Susie Hazard," and she was being piloted.

At last we determined upon a ferry boat. That would take us close enough to get a good look. We boarded Captain Christy's boat and he let us go up in the pilot house.

From the pilot house we looked right on the deck of the Arkansas as the ferry crossed the river. That wasn't going aboard, however. The ferry took us to the East St. Louis landing. We saw some rowboats down near a houseboat settlement.

We walked down there over railroad tracks and levee dust, which is a mixture of black and sand. All the inhabitants of the boat houses were viewing the monitor from the sandy beach before their doors.

The beach was just as good a beach as they have at seaside resorts. "Three men in a boat" were out on the river a short distance from us. My escort halted them. They came in, but when we told them that we wanted to go aboard the Arkansas they told us we were talking of the impossible.

They didn't quite the mayor to us, however, but backed their boat in and let us try.

Officers Help

Visitors Aboard.

It had three inches of water in it. They had been using a sail, but put that away when they took us as passengers. They told me to take the last seat. I did.

personally, and extended to us the privileges of the ship.

Our rowers brought us close to the little ladder that is used to climb on deck. One of the officers reached down and helped me to make the high step. In an effort to be less of a weight I stepped on the side of our little boat and almost upset it. "That's just the way to upset a boat," said the officer, before I was introduced to him. He didn't say it in a scolding way, but just as if he had discovered a new and important fact.

Commander Vreeland was on shore, but Lieut. Simpson and Lieut. Strauss did the honors. That is, Lieutenant Strauss conducted us through the ship, while Lieut. Simpson told funny stories in between times.

Of course the Arkansas isn't a bit like an ice when you're once aboard. No sign of melting, even though the April sun shone with some strength.

Clean and shiny and hard—that's the way the Arkansas looks when you're just as close as you can be.

Mystery of Ship's

Hold Explored.

The first place we went was downstairs to look at the staterooms. I don't suppose sailors call it downstairs, but this isn't a nautical novel—no room in this edition to print definitions of the terms. The stairs are narrow and they have ropes on either side for bankers—nice white ropes that hang at the side and look like decorations when not in use. Lieutenant Strauss never touched them, but I held to them with a strong grip.

The staterooms reminded me of a four-room flat condensed into a corner with none of the furniture removed. The bathroom part of the flat is overhead, the clothes presses are under the bed, the library hangs on the wall.

But, maybe you think those officers haven't comfort and taste—I counted four sofa pillows lined up against the wall of one stateroom, in another I saw pictures set around with brilliantia, in each I saw much good order, with no suggestion of fun.

The commander wasn't at home, but I had a bit of a peep into his reception room. He has a real bath room, not just a tub in the ceiling; also a stateroom.

Then we went to the sailors' quarters, where the men pass their time. Where they can eat from tables that at all other times, but meal times are folded up in the ceiling, where they sleep in hammocks hung from hooks that are fixed in the ceiling, where they sit around and sew and talk and play games when not on duty.

One man was embroidering a cap, two were playing a game. A handsewing machine was standing by. Lieutenant Strauss told us that sailors usually made their own clothes.

on deck and let us climb into the turret—which is something like climbing into a hayloft, you've got to stick your head into such a little place and then climb up without looking down.

He let me look down the barrel and showed me how the big shell rolled round and round before it shot out into the air. The gunner drew up the ammunition from below by means of a crank, he "aimed" the big gun as if he were leveling at a fort, he brought out at full length the long rod, made telescope fashion, that is used to shove the shells down the barrel of the gun, but he didn't shoot, for which I am duly grateful.

Neither did he show me anything more interesting than the "ditties." I don't know whether that's the right way to form the plural, but you needn't worry. I'm not talking about a song. A "ditty" is a wooden box about two feet long and a foot wide, with a Yale lock. Each sailor owns a "ditty." In it he keeps his treasures—his letters, his sewing material and other things that he holds dear.

They are placed on shelves at the side of the sailors' quarters. I never wanted to see inside of boxes more in my life. But they were all locked. Later I saw a sailor with his open. He was folding little pieces of what looked like up-bleached muslin and putting them in the box. I didn't see a sign of pressed flowers or little blue notes—guess he wasn't a romantic sailor.

"Ditty" boxes aren't large enough for clothes. The sailors keep their in tall bags—black bags for the engineers' force because they sometimes have dirty hands, white bags for the deckmen. We went upstairs to see the galley where the crew's supper was being cooked. We saw big pans of scrambled eggs and bacon cooking away. Over on the other side a "flag" was at work preparing the supper of the officers.

We also went to the hospital and looked at the clean cots and the drug store full of medicine, and talked to the kind-looking physician.

There was a table and a clock.

may be shot and killed. Then we went to the cabin for a rest.

There they showed us the "wife and sweetheart" picture, and Lieut. Simpson told this story.

The sailor's toast: "To our wife and our sweethearts; may they never meet."

"We showed that picture to an Englishman one time. He didn't laugh. He didn't understand the laughter of the others. 'I can't see,' said he, 'why my wife shouldn't meet your sweetheart!'"

From the cabin we went back on deck. I wanted to know if they sometimes danced there, and Lieut. Strauss said that they did.

Then the mayor arrived. That gave me great pleasure to know that I'd seen the Arkansas before the mayor of St. Louis. While he was seeing the things I had seen we went back to shore on the steam launch that doesn't take water after the fashion of the boat owned by the three men.

SPECIAL AIDES TO MAJ.-GEN. CORBIN

Three Missourians, two of them St. Louisans, have been honored by Major-General Corbin, grand marshal of the dedication parade, with appointments as special aides to him on Thursday.

They are Capt. Ralph Harrison and First Lieut. Walter F. Martin of the Second United States Cavalry and First Lieut. George H. Shields, Jr., of the Twelfth Infantry.

Lieuts. Shields and Martin are St. Louisans, both former members of Battery A, Capt. Harrison is a native of Greenfield, Mo., and went to West Point from that district. He has frequently been stationed at St. Louis and is well known here.

There are 12 of the special aides to Gen. Corbin, the list being headed by Paymaster-General A. E. Bates and including Col. George S. Anderson of the Eighth United States Cavalry and Col. H. J. Foster of the Engineers, British army.

The aides will escort Gen. Corbin to the St. Louis Club Thursday and will ride with him.

MRS. HERBON
COLUMBIA

THIS IS THIRD HISTORIC APRIL 30 IN UNITED STATES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—April 30 is a day of deep historical import to this country for a double reason. The Louisiana Purchase treaty was signed on April 30, 1803, and George Washington was inaugurated as first President April 30, 1789—114 years ago.

New York was the scene of the inauguration, and there was an imposing procession through the streets.

A national salute unshored the morning. Business of every kind was suspended. At 9 o'clock all the bells in the steeple rang and invited the people to gather in solemn services to invoke the divine blessing on the new nation.

The joint committee of Congress having charge of the matter were Senators Ralph Waldo of South Carolina, William Dorr of Massachusetts, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia and Members Egbert Benson of New York, Charles Carroll of Maryland and Amos Pincher of Massachusetts.

The procession was made up of various regiments, the joint committee of Congress, the heads of departments, the foreign ministers and a long train of distinguished citizens. Vice-President Adams was in the procession.

form to the august body in whose presence stood.

At 10 o'clock the Senate and House were ready to attend, while the oath required by the Constitution of the United States was administered by the Chancellor of the State of New York.

Washington gravely replied, "I am proud to proceed," and, led by the vice-president and accompanied by the senators, the chief justice and other members of the cabinet, he passed on the balcony that overlooked the broad Wall and the streets.

Washington was dressed in a suit of black, with a white cravat and a white waistcoat. He wore a sword and a pair of white stockings.

There was a large table on the balcony resting on cushions. It was taken from the White House and was covered with a white cloth. On it stood a large vase of flowers and a pair of silver candlesticks.

It is done," said Chief Justice Livingston, turning to the throng in the street, "a wave of his flag, he uttered the words of the oath, and then stooped to kiss the flag." "I swear," said Chief Justice Livingston, "that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution."

One of the most imposing features of the dedication week is the brilliant gathering of ambassadors, envoys, ministers plenipotentiary and charges d'affaires of foreign nations, who carry with them the rank and pomp of their respective countries.

This galaxy is representative of worldwide powers, second-rate kingdoms, monarchies and popular governments.

The special train bringing the foreign notables from Washington arrived in St. Louis Wednesday morning.

The Plaster is the headquarters of the diplomatic section, and strict order of precedence in the assignment of rooms on the second and third floors has been observed.

The hotel officials have been greatly perturbed in observing the proper distinctions, and have been given semi-official assistance by the World's Fair authorities, who are fully aware that etiquette in diplomatic circles carries with it great weight.

Mr. Dine-Albertin, secretary of the reception committee of the World's Fair, has studied the situation carefully and made the disposition of rooms, carriages, seats at tables and places of precedence in public in such a way as to conform to the accepted rules and to avert any unpleasant contretemps.

According to court etiquette, which prevails in diplomatic affairs, the order of precedence is as follows: Ambassadors, ministers, charges d'affaires will be made with dignitaries.

Twelve Women in State Party.

It is definitely assumed by dispatches from Washington that Count Casteln, Baron Sternberg, Sir Michael Herbert, and Minister Kagura Takura will not be present.

Twelve wives of foreign representatives are members of the party.

participate in the military parade.

With the other notables they will be at the beautiful clubhouse of the Club, on Lindell avenue, near Grand, to witness the ceremony of presenting freedom of the city to President Wells by Mayor Wells at 12 o'clock.

At the close of the formal President Roosevelt, Gov. Decker, or Wells and President Francis will be the clubhouse, followed by the distinguished group, and enter carriage.

No division of the imposing parade will attract more attention than the diplomatic section, full of color and they ride behind the President and followed by the military pageant. Liberal Arts building, during the ceremony, they occupy a junior.

May 1, the second of the dedication is foreign day. The exercises, which also be held in the Liberal Arts will be participated in by a number of foreign ambassadors and ministers.

Though the President will have no Washington, the distinguished from abroad remain, for their part, activities is of a more active nature.

They will gather at the St. Louis and take carriage. There will be a parade, but under escort of cavalry headed by the magnificent March the decorated foreigners will again to the Exposition grounds.

Gov. Carl Fournier will preside over the exercises and the introduction will be made by former United States John M. Thurston of commission, who, in the name

ST. LOUIS IS HOST TO WORLD'S FAIR WOMEN

Members of Board of Lady Managers Are Leaders in Society, Literature and Business in Their Home Cities.

While St. Louis is welcoming men officials from many states this week, the city is also host to a number of women from all parts of the country, who are here in an official capacity. These are 23 representatives comprising the Board of Lady Managers of the World's Fair. The board is holding a conference during the dedication week, and has rooms set apart in the Administration building for this purpose.

The board was established with the object of having a commissioner in each state who would help to arouse interest in the Exposition, and would lend aid generally to state officials and exhibitors who are to participate in any way.

Sub-committees, with specific spheres of activity, have been appointed. This week the committee on women's work and the committee appointed to confer with the National Commission will submit reports of their doings.

In addition to an examination and discussion of what has been done since the last meeting in October, future plans of campaign will be mapped out. Ladies from such states as have not made appropriations for the Fair will confer as to ways and means by which the latter may be persuaded into activity. It is only reasonable to presume that some ingenious schemes will be evolved to bring the recreation states into line.

The representative from Georgia, for instance, Mrs. Fannie L. Porter, will probably go back to Atlanta with an irresistible method of attack on the opponents of an appropriation.

Mrs. Porter has already done much telling work toward getting a large appropriation, and the governor of Georgia has promised her that he will strongly recommend such an appropriation in his next message. She expects that action will be taken in June. Mrs. Porter is widely known in her state, and she was the hostess of President and Mrs. Cleveland when they paid a visit to Georgia during Cleveland's last term.

No More Members Will Be Added.
At the October meeting of the board the attendance was not nearly as large as it is now. A number of new members have been added, but it is not intended to increase the membership any further.

It was expected that Miss Helen Gould would be present at this meeting. It is unlikely, however, that she will come. Other members who are not in attendance are Miss Anna Dawes and Mrs. Richard W. Knott.

At the first meeting of the board on Tuesday morning, Mrs. J. B. Blair was in the chair. Mrs. Blair is the president, and is the wife of the general counsel for the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

active interest in the work of the board. Other officers are Mrs. Edward L. Buckwalter of Ohio, first vice-president; Mrs. Finis P. Ernest of Colorado, second vice-president; Mrs. Belle L. Everest of Kansas and Mrs. Daniel Manning of Washington, D. C., vice-presidents; Mrs. Fred M. Hanger of Arkansas, secretary; Mrs. William H. Coleman of Indiana, treasurer; Mrs. J. B. Montgomery of Oregon, chairman of the committee on women's work.

Friday evening it is intended that the officers and the other members of the board will receive at the St. Louis Club with President Francis.

Women noted in literature, art, music, society and the club world are amongst the commissioners. One of the ladies is a prominent business woman and the president of a bank. This is Mrs. Annie McLean Moore of Texas. She is the head of the First National Bank of Mount Pleasant.

She has held that position for ten years. In addition to being thoroughly familiar with loans and discounts, Mrs. Moore is highly educated. She has studied widely and has a particular fondness for modern languages.

Miss Lavinia H. Egan of Louisiana, is one of the literary women of the board. She is both an author and a journalist. In the latter capacity, she has written for the Philadelphia Times and other papers. She has also published a volume of short stories which show talent of a high order.

A well-known soprano singer is Mrs. Helen Botes-Humaker of Philadelphia. She has appeared as a singer in public and has a studio in her home city.

A leader in the social and club life of Denver, Colo., is Mrs. Finis P. Ernest. She received part of her education in St. Louis, having attended the Sacred Heart Convent for two years.

Mrs. J. B. Montgomery of Portland, Ore., is the daughter of a former governor of Missouri. She presided over the executive mansion during her father's term of office. Like Mrs. Ernest she attended school in this city, having been a pupil at the Visitation Convent.

A woman with a wide acquaintance in America and Europe is Mrs. Daniel Manning, who lives at the national capital. Her husband was secretary of the treasury under Cleveland.

Other women prominent in both the social and club life of their respective states are: Mrs. W. E. Andrews, Hastings, Neb.; wife of the auditor of the treasury; Mrs. R. G. Holmes, Hartford, Conn.; Mrs. Frederick H. Hanger, Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. Belle L. Everest, Atchison, Kan.; Mrs. William H. Coleman, Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. W. Hughwalter, Springfield, Mo.; and Mrs. J. B. Montgomery, Portland, Ore.

HOSPITAL RESERVED FOR OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS

Extensive plans have been made by the acting health commissioner, Dr. William H. Harrison of the United States medical department, and Chief Dispensary Physician G. A. Gordon. The visiting officers expressed themselves as highly pleased with the arrangements.

Far better facilities for caring for the sick soldiers will be found at the hospital than would obtain at a tent hospital near the encampment. During the parade ambulances will be kept in readiness to convey all soldiers who are taken sick along the line of march to this hospital direct and none but officers and soldiers in uniform will be taken there.

Twenty-five ambulances will be in commission day and night on the Dedication day. A special dispensary has been established by the Health Department in the Cottage of the Fair Commissioner at Sylvan Lake in Forest Park. This will be kept open night and day and a full quota of nurses has been assigned to care for the sick who may be brought there by ambulances stationed at the World's Fair grounds. Dr. Jordan will be in charge, assisted by Mr. Baisbath and Hensler.

Some thirty patients at the O'Fallon street hospital have been taken to the new quarters here will return to their old quarters in the City Hospital. The O'Fallon street institution will accommodate 20 patients without crowding, but it is thought that it will not be used to its full capacity. It is fully equipped for handling all surgical and medical cases.

Transportation from the military camps to the hospital will be in charge. A hospital trolley service was inaugurated and sick soldiers were taken direct to the hospital in a car ambulance especially fitted. Details were discussed at the hospital Monday by Dr. Laidley, medical director of the World's Fair, Charles W. F.

COMPARISON OF HER MERITS
WITH THOSE OF CHALLENGER

While Lipton's Boat Is the Best Constantant Yet Sent Over, the American Boat Apparently Is Her Superior.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, April 30.—Although the new cup defender, Reliance, has not been seen either the old faithful Columbia or constitution, it is possible to make several comparisons of no small interest in view of the fact that Shamrock III is manifestly a better ship than any challenger that has come across the sea.

Even the casual observer will see, for instance, that the spread of sail on the Reliance is much larger than that on either of the old boats, and greater sails should mean greater speed. As to the fit of the sails, of which some doubt has been expressed, it is certain that the main sail
of Reliance looks better than anything ever seen above a defender on a first trial. In connection with the fit of the sails is the fact that the gaff hangs almost directly above the boom. In this respect the new yacht seems far superior to the generally conceded how that Con-stitution's failure two years ago was due to her sails, and not to the model of the hull, and in no respect was she more defective above deck than in the swing of the gaff.

Constitution's Weakness

Avoided by Builders.
In designing the sails of Reliance, Herschel has plainly kept the Constitution's defect in mind, and he has entirely avoided it in Reliance.
With the peak of her mainmast well in-
board, she should point at least a half point higher than either of the old defenders, and still hold her own. With this in mind, it is most interesting to note that when Reliance heels under full sail
she does not seem to lose any of her wind and she goes over her sailing lines, and here she hangs. She is remarkably stiff, therefore.

On the other hand, we now know that Shamrock III rolls far less when she is struck by a sea than the old boats, and easily lifted by the power applied to the sails. That power, in fact, is the only lift her. But when Shamrock III heels to the wind her little air offers but a resistance to the power on the sails, and over she goes. Sir Thomas Lipton says that when the mast gave way the other day the water was six feet deep on the lee deck. In her disposition to roll and spill the wind out of her sails Shamrock
III is apparently inferior to Shamrock II.

Water Cuts

Water Easily.
Feature of Reliance is the ease with
she passes through the water.
There is no wave under her bow, no hollow water about the hull, no spray, and under the counter—none to
of—that is, considering that she is traveling at the rate of 12
knots an hour. In this respect Reliance is superior to Columbia, and still more superior to the Columbia.

A curious feature of the new defender
is the way she has of poking her nose out of the water when going at high speed.
She rises forward because of the wide flap of the water. Naturally her great length tend to prevent pitching. Another very encouraging apparent fact is that Reliance steers easily. She has a double wheel, and four men can put their strength on the rudder at one time
if necessary.

As to her work in stays, we may approximate that Columbia is a trifle slower
at takes time to slow that long in approach. Very likely Shamrock III will be a few seconds quicker and in the standard of the international races we shall see Capt. Bob Wring flapping Shamrock II from side to side every ten lengths or less, as was done with Shamrock I four years ago. But we shall have seen and hear to care for the defender and the new and met those tactics with success
when Shamrock III is seen.

On the whole, it is certain that old salts never felt as hopeful of a new boat at her first trial as they do of Reliance.
This is not to say positively that she is the best ever, that cannot be told until she has had two or three foretellers.
But certainly the outlook is most cheerful.

AND OF A THENS MADE A SOLDIER

CAPTAIN ARKONDAS
NEW MACEDONIAN REBEL CHIEF

He Has Now Become a Revolutionist and Is Trying to Throw Off the Turkish Yoke
From Macedonia.

LONDON, April 30.—The Macedonian
cause has just found a redoubtable champion in the person of the Greek Captain Arkondas. He has recently invaded Maccedonia with a band of Greek volunteers, all dare-devil like himself, who are resolved to free the province from the Turkish yoke.

At this time, of course, being done without
the assistance of the Greek government, but it is an open secret that many of the soldiers of the revolution are of the students of Athens who have planned to tender the valiant warrior during his recent visit to the capital was stopped by the government.

Capt. Arkondas fought the Turks successfully in 1897, and it is predicted that if the Macedonian Committee will give him
the necessary assistance, he will succeed.
He is reported to have been driven into his martial calling by a pretty princess who killed him. He had met her in the city of Thessalonica, and she was the daughter of a Greek nobleman.

Since then, he has been known to be happier in battle or in perilous situations, where he can forget the sorrows of blighted love.

He is now in the city of Thessalonica,
and is waiting for the opportunity to launch his revolution.
